

Food, Arts, History Seaside

Head over to the South Shore's very own peninsula, Hull, to take in the views, learn about the history of this seaside town and check out vibrant, eclectic scene.

Start by taking a drive to "the gut" to watch the boats move among the Boston Harbor Islands and the cityscape. Stop in to Fort Revere for some incredible views and to wander through the old remains dating back to the American Revolution. While you're there, stop into the Hull Lifesaving Museum to take in the history of this seaside town.

Stop into Paragon Boardwalk on your way back through the peninsula and check out the mural walk, food trucks and other happenings. Nantasket Beach is just across the street (and so is a great seaside playground for those parents of young kids). Fuel up with a bite to eat from one of the many eateries along Nantasket Ave.

You'll have a Hull of a time, we promise!
